TO THE

Worthy Freemen and Electors.

LET me exhort you, my friends and fellow Citizens, to be aware (in these critical times) to whom you give your Votes, and to be guarded against those who are under the TOLERATION ACT: — Reflect upon the times of Charles the First:—Remember old NOLL, let no sect whatever tempt you to rise against the Church, by Law established; but support it with ROMAN heroic vigor, and never let the basis of our sacred Religion fall a wreck. Under the support of God let me advise you to shun all Democrats and factious discontented parties, and never open an avenue for our GALLIC foes to triumph upon English ground. Let us avoid the Guillotines and shrieks of Murder, and use our utmost endeavors to clasp in our arms a lasting PEACE:—Therefore, vote for WINDHAM, who with unequal'd zeal has driven the Horrors of WAR from our British Isle.—He is the man who will stand firm upon the pillars of Hercules.—He is the man who will faithfully protect his countries cause, in concurrence with the interest of this opulent city, and court no reward but that of honor and the public good.

A CITIZEN.
